Shortly after the world war an organization known as the American Field Service Fellowships for French Universities was established "to provide an enduring memorial to the one hundred and twenty-seven Field Service men who gave their lives to the cause." In offering fellowships for American men in France, it was the object of this organization to make available for qualified American students the intellectual and inspirational opportunities which France offers and to strengthen the sympathy between the United States and that country.

Each year a limited number of awards are made under the auspices of the Institute of International Education to candidates selected from among the graduates of American colleges and universities, carrying a stipend of $1400 and tenable for one year. A fellowship may be renewed for a second year upon application provided circumstances warrant it. A candidate may choose his field and place of study but usually the fellowships will be granted only for the pursuit of advanced study in the field in which the candidate has already shown proficiency.

The fellowships are open to men only. A candidate must:

- (1) Be a citizen of the United States and American born ~~or one of its possessions; or of American parentage.~~
- (2) At the time of making the application be a graduate of a college of recognized standing or of a professional school requiring three years of study for a degree; or if not qualified in either of these ways, must be twenty-four years of age and must have spent five years in work requiring high technical skill;
- (3) Be of good moral character and intellectual ability, and of ~~suitable personal qualities;~~ former qualities of leadership.
- (4) Present a certificate of good health;
- (5) Possess ability to do independent study and research; and

- (6) Have a practical ability to use French books, both in general subjects and in his own special field, and be able to speak French and understand lectures delivered in French.

If a student is granted an award, the credentials submitted to the Exchange will be kept, with the exception of his birth certificate which will be returned. Any printed or written papers, theses or books will be returned if postage is sent for that purpose. The credentials of an unsuccessful candidate, with the exception of confidential letters of recommendation which are retained, will be returned upon receipt of postage for the purpose.

Applicants who accept the award of a fellowship will be expected to sail to France on or about July 1, or preferably earlier, in the year in which the award is made. Unless already so proficient in the language as to be exempted from this requirement by the Secretary, fellows will be required to devote the first summer to the study and practice of oral French, and shall transmit to the Secretary a certificate of proficiency. It is strongly recommended that in such cases the first few months be spent in the provinces, where experience indicates that the most rapid progress can be made in learning the language.

Those fellows who intend to study at an approved French University shall transmit the record of their matriculation in the first semester of the academic year to the Secretary.

Applications must be received at the office of the Institute of International Education not later than January 1 of the year in which the award is to be made. Full information and application blanks may be obtained from

IN order to provide an enduring memorial for the one hundred and twenty-seven Field Service men who gave their lives to the Cause, and in order to perpetuate among future generations of French and American youth the mutual understanding and fraternity of spirit which marked their relations during the war, an organization has been established, known as the American Field Service Fellowships for French Universities. This organization proposes to award fellowships for advanced study in France to students selected from American colleges, universities, and technical establishments and fellowships for French students in American universities. These fellowships will, when endowed, be named after the men of the American Field Service who died in France; and it is intended, if sufficient funds can be obtained, to name a fellowship in memory of each one of these men.

A PERMANENT endowment for a fellowship requires $25,000, and the endowment of one hundred and twenty-seven fellowships will require $3,175,000, the greater part of which must be obtained through the generosity of friends. The trustees of the old Field Service have obtained from the court authority to devote to this purpose the fund remaining in their hands (approximately 2,400,000 francs); and have voted that toward the first number of fellowships raised in memory of Field Service men who died in the war, $12,500 shall be contributed from this Fund to each $12,500 raised by any individuals or committees.

WHILE the primary object is to secure endowments as memorials for Field Service men who gave their lives in the war, any endowments for fellowships in memory of others will of course be gratefully accepted by the trustees.
